

W. Brian Simison
California Academy of Sciences
Curator, Center for Comparative Genomics
55 Music Concourse Drive, San Francisco, CA 94118
bsimison@calacademy.org
(415)379.5297

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Peer Reviewed Publications:

W.B. Simison and Boore, J. (2008). Molluscan evolutionary genomics. In Phylogeny and Evolution of the Mollusca. (W. F. Ponder & D. R. Lindberg, eds.), University of California Press, Berkeley, CA.

W.B. Simison, Lindberg, D. R. and Boore, J. (2006). Rolling circle amplification of metazoan mitochondrial genomes. Molecular Phylogenetics and Evolution, 39:562-567.

W.B. Simison (2006). Patterns of endemism for nearshore gastropod molluscs: A new view of the Gulf of California. Journal of Molluscan Studies, 72: 53-63.

Shi, H., J.F. Parham, W.B. Simison, J. Wang, S. Gong, and B. Fu. (2005). A report on the wild hybridization between two species of threatened Asian box turtles (Testudines: Cuora) on Hainan Island, China. Amphibia-Reptilia. Amphibia-Reptilia 26(3):377-381

Espoz, Carmen, Lindberg, D. R., Castilla, J. C., and Simison, W. B. (2004). Intertidal limpets of Chile and Peru. Revista Chilena de Historia Natural. 77(2):257-283.

Simison, W. Brian, Lindberg, David R. (2003). On the identity of Lottia strigatella (Carpenter, 1864) (Patellogastropoda:Lottidae). The Veliger, 46:1-19.

Simison, W. Brian (2002). Plate Tectonics. Encyclopedia of Global Environmental Change. The Earth System: Physical & Chemical Dimensions of Global Environmental Change. 1:605-606.

Parham, J. F., Simison, W. B., Kozak, K. H. Feldman, C. R., (2000). New Chinese turtles: Endangered or invalid? A reassessment of two species using mitochondrial DNA, allozyme electrophoresis and known-locality specimens. Animal Conservation, 4:357-457.

Simison, W. Brian, Lindberg, David R. (1999). Morphological and molecular resolution of a putative cryptic species complex: A case study of Notoacmea fascicularis

(Menke, 1851) (Gastropoda: Patellogastropoda). Journal of Molluscan Studies, 65:99-109.

Peer Reviewed Abstracts:

Lipps, Jere H., Langer, M. R., Piller, W. E., Simison, W. B., Berbee, M., LoBuglio, and Taylor, J. (1992). Molecular phylogeny of foraminifera and radiolaria. Eos 73 (supplement) p.319.

Langer, M. R., Lipps, Jere H., and Simison, W. B. (1992). Testing the molecular clock of evolution with planktic foraminifera. Eos 73 (supplement) p.273.

Abstracts:

Simison, W. Brian and Lindberg, D.R. (2004) Gastropod mitochondrial genomes. World Congress of Malacology, Perth, Australia.

Simison, W. Brian. (2003). Phylogeography of New World Lottia. The Malacological Society of London. Limpets 2003, Evolution and Biology of Marine Limpets.

Lindberg, D.R., W. B. Simison and E. Begovic. (2001). Marine angiosperm patellogastropods from the Dominican Republic Neogene: a spatial-temporal waypoint between Eocene Europe and Recent North America. PaleoBios: 21(2): 85.

Lindberg, D.R. and Simison, W. B. (2000). Measuring marine molluscan biodiversity: The confounding effects of currency, nomenclature, and tradition. The Malacological Society of Australasia Molluscs. p.57.

Lindberg, D.R., W. B. Simison and E. Begovic. (2000). Tracking a marine specialist in geological time: Deciphering confounding patterns of migration, colonization and physiological change. Program and Abstracts, American Malacological Society. p.74.

Lindberg, D.R. and W.B. Simison. (2000). Phylogeny and ecology of the "true" limpets: the Patellogastropoda. Abstracts. 5th International Temperate Reef Symposium, Cape Town, South Africa: p.41.

Ford, P.J.; Simison, W. B., Feldman, C. R., Kozak, K. H. (2000). Identifying the provenance of Chinese turtles: The importance of verified locality data for systematics and conservation. Proceedings of the 80th annual meeting of ichthyologists and herpetologists. p.155.

Parham, James Ford; Kozak, Kenneth H., Simison, W. B., Feldman, C. R. (2000). New species of turtles from China: Endangered species or infrequent hybrids. Proceedings of the fourth Asian herpetological conference. p.134.

Simison, W. Brian. (2000). Evolution and Phylogeography of New World Gastropod Faunas. A dissertation submitted in partial satisfaction of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in Integrative Biology, Simison, W. Brian. (1999). Molecular phylogeography of the eastern Pacific and Caribbean Patellogastropoda, 65th Annual Meeting The American Malacological Society, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, U.S.A. Program and Abstracts, p. 40.

Simison, W. Brian. (1996). Non-Cladistic use of molecular data: can molecular analyses resolve morphological ambiguities? American Malacological Union, Chicago.

Simison, W. Brian. (1996). Patterns of gastropod endemism in the Gulf of California, 6th North American Paleontological Conference, Abstracts of Papers. Washington DC, p.359 (June 1996).

In Preparation:

Simison, W. Brian. New World phylogeography of the Patellogastropoda.

Simison, W. Brian, Lindberg, D. R. Gene order changes and elevated nucleotide substitutions are correlated.

Simison, W. Brian, Begovic, E., Meyer, C. P. Kirkendale, L., Lindberg, D. R. A nearly complete molecular phylogeny of Patellogastropoda.